Summary: The Historic Highland Park Neighborhood Council (HHPNC) represents over 60,000 Los Angeles Stakeholders who reside, own property, or conduct business in the neighborhood of Highland Park. With acceptable and strong protections, HHPNC is in support of the Referendum for Charter Amendment B and recommends that the Los Angeles City Council – through the Ad Hoc Comprehensive Job Creation Plan Committee – move forward with the creation of a publicly-controlled Bank of Los Angeles. Considering the supporting facts and standpoints of public banks, safeguards must be established for strong oversight, accountability and transparency to prevent any political influence from the city councilmembers and external parties or entities. The City should acquire an outside third-party banking consultant to evaluate the drawbacks and benefits of a public bank and implement, PRIOR to opening the public bank, protections to block third party self-interests, such as developers and corporations, from subjugating the interests of the people and their communities. Establishing a citizen oversight committee to monitor the operations, loans and city investments of the public bank is vital to block the City government’s political influence in decision-making process. Loan requirements, regulations and protocols need to be strong to guarantee repayment and sustain the solvency of the “Bank of Los Angeles.” Also, HHPNC recommends that BEFORE a possible “Bank of Los Angeles” moves forward, a detailed business plan must be presented to Angelenos. In addition, Angelenos need to be assured that the Bank of Los Angeles will have a sound infrastructure with banking-experienced senior management and strong credit standards.
to the public services. For instance, the chartering of a publicly-controlled bank empowers the community to reinvest in the acquisition, construction, and rehabilitation of housing units that can help alleviate the homelessness and affordable housing crisis. Other opportunities include investment in youth through after-school programs, rebuilding crumbling infrastructure, promoting small business growth, transitioning to a green energy grid, bolstering environmentally-friendly public transportation, and more. Lastly, this ensures that tax dollars are not used by Wall Street to invest societally detrimental ways, as seen with crisis of 2008.

All in all, the establishment of the “Bank of Los Angeles” would further empower the City to take advantage of investment opportunities that directly benefit the local community and its ideals. Therefore, HHPNC supports the Referendum for Charter Amendment B and CF 03-1459-S3 with strong protections for Angelenos.
