Comments for Public Posting: More corruption and greed at the expense of everyone else, huh? The billboards are already littering our once beautiful city. Advertisements we don't need, we are inundated with ads in every, single, aspect of our lives. I personally cannot not stand "moving" signs. They hurt my eyes and I must shield them and YES I drive. I doubt if I alone and I don't have a medical problem. But, someone with epilepsy would have a problem. I knew some one who had childhood epilepsy, grew out of it, only for it to return after site seeing in Vegas....wonder why? Luckily she wasn't driving at the time she had a seizure. So, if this is passed, prepare for several law suits. I would think you folks would be trying to beautify and clean our environment. Exactly what part of your job states you much destroy it? Not to mention, how come all the tax paying homeowners have to reduce their electrical use while these signs use electricity 24/7?
