Comments for Public Posting: Dear LA City Council, Please think very long and hard about allowing an unlimited amount of digital billboards on public lands. It looks like you are trying to profit from a predatory industry that has operated in nothing but bad faith. The land you are going to degrade and rent to put up these huge obnoxious billboards is our land. The people's land, and it is very clear from past polls and the popularity of the 2002 ban that the people do not want these blights on our neighborhoods. There are enough distractions and commercialization of our public spaces. When is enough enough - when you block all the views, paste ads on every available space. We are bombarded with ads all day. We don;t need them flashed at us when we drive our kids to school. Just because you have the power to do something does not mean you should. And in this case you absolutely shouldn't. The amount of money the City will make off these signs, is not worth the urban blight, accidents, and stress they will cause drivers on their way to drop their kids off. I am a voter, Cindy
