I am emailing you regarding my strong opposition in the use of pesticides to control the rodent population. I find it shocking that parks and recreation could even consider using this means. California is special due to its diverse wildlife. I am a committed hiker in the Santa Monica Mountains and relish the presence of all that nature provides, including mountain lions, coyotes, wild birds, etc. Please ban the practice of using harmful means to control the rat population. I live in a canyon where rats are a daily scourge but I use non toxic means to control them. Rats will always be with us. Lets use safe measures to control them. Please help! Joan Diane Donatelli
