The Council record retention does not even cover their term or reelection periods up to 12 years. How can the citizen be informed with records destroyed after 8 years? How can the next councilmember access information, as was the recent case with Council District 4?

You need to approach record retention from the public's needs including research. How can books be written with records destroyed. Major projects cross the desks of councilmembers, yet items are considered inconsequential. Why?

Why are councilmembers not submitted their records to Archives? City records taken should be investigated.

Please reconsider the schedules.
