Comments for Public Posting: This can be beneficial in extending and expediting shelter. Of course that depends upon on how the city implements shelter and access to same. We urge the city to implement shelter in a humane and compassionate fashion. Under no circumstances should shelter be used to criminalize homelessness by making it more difficult for people to sleep or occupy the sidewalks, nor should it be used to “red line” areas to exclude homeless people. It is also important that the CEQA exemptions be used carefully and not abused to further displacement of residents or to further the interests of developers. - Miki Jackson for AHF
