Summary: The West Hills Neighborhood Council supports the effort to reduce the undue influence of developers, but we believe the current proposal does not go far enough in limiting the disproportionate influences of all who contribute to the campaign funds of officeholders and candidates. We have two requests for modifying the proposed ordinance: 1. Remove the portion of the motion that refers to “restricted developers.” Appropriate limits should be placed on contributions of all developers, regardless of the sizes of their projects. 2. In addition, the West Hills Neighborhood Council requests that conflict-of-interest rules be applied to all campaign contributions in the same manner as “gifts” are regulated by the State of California’s Fair Political Practices Commission. A City Councilmember therefore would be obliged to recuse him/herself from any action affecting a campaign contributor who donates more than the value of a “gift” amount that triggers a requirement for recusal. These rules would apply regardless of the industry or causes with which the contributor is affiliated. The City’s Ethics Commission shall establish rules enforcing this requirement and ensuring its purposes are not thwarted by multiple contributions by associated individuals, “behested” donations to third parties, independent campaign expenditures or other means.
