Re: Council File 17-1125/Dockless On Demand
Personal Mobility Rules and Guidelines

Dear Mr. Bonin:

Our firm represents ofo bikes, the world's largest operator of dockless bike share programs. Ofo continues to appreciate the effort on the part of DOT staff to craft workable and sensible operating rules for dockless personal mobility devices in the City. Ofo offers the following comments concerning DOT's revised draft rules dated June 27, 2018.

1. Fleet size. The revised draft rules propose that, with certain exceptions, operators may increase their initial fleet of 500 vehicles to a maximum of 2500 vehicles. To increase beyond 500, operators must "submit justification as to why it is required." However, the draft rules set forth no specific criteria or factors for operators to cite in submitting such justifications or for DOT to consider in approving those requests.

The rules also appear to allow DOT to operate more than 2500 vehicles if approved by the General Manager of DOT. DOT's cover memo indicates that fleets can be increased to 5000 if companies show at least 3 rides per day per vehicle and otherwise adhere to the City's rules. However, the draft rules themselves do not mention the daily usage requirement and otherwise set no limits on the discretion of DOT in approving such requests. Rather, the rules allow additional vehicles to be permitted "at the discretion of the General Manager and may depend on factors related to performance and compliance."

Ofo has a number of concerns with the proposed fleet size rules. First, ofo continues to believe that any limit on fleet size is inappropriate. ofo and the other vehicle share operators are private companies with no financial or operational motivation to operate more devices than the market demands. Thus, artificial limits on fleet size are not needed to guard against excessive devices in the City. The same is true of any requirement that increases only be allowed based on arbitrary usage rates. Companies can and do decide for themselves what usage rates justify additional devices. Moreover, usage rates will differ based on location, device type, and other factors. Setting a uniform minimum usage rate applicable to all devices in all parts of the City will discriminate against various locations and user populations. Moreover, the suggested usage rate of at least 3 rides per day per vehicle is excessively high. As a point of reference, Metro bikeshare devices generate less than 1 ride per day per vehicle.

June 26, 2018

Second, by failing to specify the factors to be considered in allowing increases beyond each operator's initial 500 devices, the draft rules fail to provide appropriate guidance to both operators and DOT as to how such decisions will be made. The same is true of the language that apparently allows fleet size increases beyond 2500. In this situation too, DOT appears to be afforded unfettered discretion to make fleet increase decisions based on any and all factors it considers appropriate.

Removing the proposed fleet size restrictions and instead allowing the market to determine appropriate device levels obviates these various concerns.

2. Fleet mix. The initially proposed rules required that operators "reserve" a minimum of 50% of their fleet size for electric vehicles. The newly proposed rules maintain the requirement except for companies that reserve at least 1% of their vehicles for adaptive bicycles. While this clearly is an improvement, ofo continues to believe that this too is a matter that the market should decide. At present, it is unknown whether Angelenos will prefer electric vehicles over conventional pedal bikes. If they do not, then why should Angelenos artificially be deprived of devices—i.e., pedal bikes—that are the least expensive, most environmentally clean, and most exercise-promoting of all shared mobility devices?

3. Parking. While the revised rules no longer require all devices to have rigid locking devices, they nonetheless authorize DOT in its sole discretion to require operators to use locking devices in the future. Again, no criteria or standards are set forth for the exercise of this discretion by DOT. Moreover, such authority would seem to be unnecessary in light of the rules' newly added requirement that devices utilize some form of technology that identifies that vehicles are upright and properly parked.

4. Fees. As noted by various operators, the initially proposed fees of $500/year per operator and $50/vehicle per year were outside nationwide norms and almost certainly higher than the City's regulatory costs. The alternative fees proposed in the revised rules—i.e., $20,000/year per company, $130/vehicle per year in non-disadvantaged communities, and $39/vehicle per year in disadvantaged communities—are even higher, far in excess of any reasonable regulatory expenses.

Re: Council File 17-1125, “Dockless Bike Share Systems/Pilot Program”

Dear Councilmember Bonin,

Through advocacy, influence and engagement Central City Association (CCA) is committed to supporting Downtown’s vibrancy and increasing investment in the region. As the voice for Downtown and the region’s center for growth, we support projects and initiatives that promote mobility and sustainability.

CCA was happy to see several positive changes to LADOT’s proposed dockless bicycle and scooter regulations, first heard at your committee last month. Removal of the geo-fence barrier around Downtown and increased fleet sizes were especially appreciated and we thank the City for including Downtown in this important pilot. These changes represent a big step toward a more accessible mobility ecosystem, with Downtown LA at its heart.

Alongside these improvements, we believe there are still opportunities for improvement to the revised dockless regulations before they’re finalized. We’ve included our recommendations below. (See final page for summary of recommendations.)

Fleet Size

Allowable fleet sizes have been increased from 500 to 2,500 per operator, but we believe they are still too low for a city the size of Los Angeles.

Several weeks ago Santa Monica’s City Council considered their own dockless regulations and rejected a cap of 500 vehicles per operator, arguing that such a cap undermined the city’s goals of being a leader on sustainable mobility. LA is over 50 times the physical size of Santa Monica with a population 40 times greater. Though they started with a higher population-adjusted fleet cap proposal than LA’s current proposal of 2,500 vehicles, Santa Monica chose not to implement a hard cap on fleet size and instead will rely on a “dynamic cap” based on rides per device per day.

In contrast, the current draft of City of LA guidelines proposes both a hard numeric cap and a dynamic cap. We believe the City should eliminate hard caps on fleet size and adopt only a dynamic cap to ensure that dockless vehicle availability is able to meet demand in real time (REC#1). Especially given the lessons learned from fleet roll-outs that have occurred in many other cities, and the precedent set in Santa Monica where thousands of dockless vehicles are already in service, we believe this is a smart and justifiable approach.

CCA also believes the City should consider how rides per day per device may differ for vehicles located in disadvantaged areas (REC#2). It may be the case that vehicles in disadvantaged communities have fewer rides per day, but are still useful to residents and are still profitable for providers to operate; however, if these vehicles weigh down the overall fleet's rides per day per device, operators may be discouraged from providing more vehicles in disadvantaged communities. LADOT should be cognizant of this potential issue and consider evaluating vehicles inside and outside of disadvantaged areas according to different benchmarks. The City may also consider evaluating dockless vehicle performance in smaller geographical districts and allowing expansion only in those locations, rather than assessing performance and permitting expansion citywide.

Vehicle Fees

The revised dockless regulations have proposed a new fee structure, changed from the previous recommendation of $50 per vehicle per year. The new proposal is for a reduced fee of $39 per vehicle in disadvantaged communities and a dramatically higher fee of $130 in all other locations. We believe the latter fee is too high to be applied to such a large proportion of dockless vehicles.

The proposal is based on the recent approval of Santa Monica's dockless regulations which also require a payment of $130 per vehicle per year. Santa Monica is relatively unique from most LA neighborhoods, however, for its combination of large job and tourist concentration, high incomes, and streets and paths that are comparatively bike- and scooter-friendly. Nearly all of Santa Monica scores below the 50th percentile on CalEnviroScreen while many communities in LA that don't meet the "disadvantaged" threshold nonetheless score well above the 50th percentile.

Very few LA neighborhoods can match the natural demand for dockless services in Santa Monica, and so we recommend a more modest fee increase for vehicles located outside disadvantaged communities (REC#3). A fee above $50 but significantly less than $100 would better balance the diversity of demand across the City, while still acknowledging the difference between disadvantaged and non-disadvantaged communities.

Low-Income Plan

CCA supports the goals of the low-income customer plan described in the proposed regulations, and we believe more detail is needed in describing the program elements. Specifically, the City should identify what the costs would be to a low-income customer, what services they would have access to and for what duration, etc. (REC#4). Currently the proposal does not include a cost to the user, and it suggests unlimited 30-minute rides; however, dockless bicycles and scooters operate under very different fare structures with bicycles operating on 30-minute plans and scooter customers paying per minute. These gaps in the program details should be worked out as soon as possible to provide certainty and ensure that any low-income customer plan works as intended.

We also recommend providing a credit against annual vehicle fees based on ridership by low-income customer plan riders (REC#5). The low-income customer plan represents a mandate with unknown costs to providers, and a similar program isn't currently offered by the Metro bike share program. Crediting the costs of a low-income customer plan against annual vehicle fees not only helps offset the uncertainty and potentially high costs of this community benefit, it will also encourage operators to enroll more low-income residents into the program.

Council District Sign-Off

Finally, we do not believe the City should require Councilmember sign-off to operate dockless bicycles and scooters in each individual Council District (REC#6). People's daily trips do not start and end cleanly within the boundaries of LA's council districts, and their mobility options shouldn't be limited by them either. Such a prohibition would be extremely difficult to enforce and would unnecessarily complicate (or eliminate) sustainable commutes for thousands of residents. Our transportation system should be planned regionally and should serve us all as effectively as possible. While outreach to Council offices and other stakeholders is essential, allowing individual Council Districts to veto dockless vehicle expansion doesn't align with these important principles.

CCA is excited to welcome shared dockless vehicles to Downtown LA and we're very appreciative to LADOT for their thoughtful work developing these regulations. Since the initial draft there has been significant progress and we look forward to final regulations that strike the right balance of improved access, sustainability, safety, and innovation. We hope you will consider these recommendations as the dockless regulations make their way through the Transportation Committee and City Council.

Sincerely,

Jessica Lall

Summary of Recommendations

- REC#1: Eliminate the hard cap on fleet size and adopt only a “dynamic cap” based on rides per device per day.
- REC#2: Consider how “rides per device per day” metric may differ in disadvantaged areas versus non-disadvantaged areas.
- REC#3: Reduce fee for vehicles located in non-disadvantaged areas to a more balanced amount.
- REC#4: Clearly define program details and costs for low-income customer plan.
- REC#5: Credit the costs of low-income customer plan against annual vehicle fees.
- REC#6: Eliminate Council District sign-off provision for operator approval.

Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

Bird has given me an affordable, sustainable, and convenient alternative to driving or using ride-share when I need to get around. Strictly limiting the number of Birds on our streets with an arbitrary cap would only make them harder to find, forcing me back into the car. Please do not put arbitrary limits on this great new transportation option so I can continue to rely on Bird as a sustainable and affordable alternative to sitting in traffic.

Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

Bird has given me an affordable, sustainable, and convenient alternative to driving or using ride-share when I need to get around. The proposed cap is far too low based on the demonstrated demand for user friendly shared mobility methods. Bird has been so successful and revolutionary because our city refuses to accept and encourage alternatives to the car. Our elected officials can no longer declare themselves to be “green leaders” but limit access to sustainable transportation at every turn. Please do not implement an arbitrary cap based on numbers proposed by far smaller cities without adequately studying the demand and community impact.

Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

Bird has given me an affordable, sustainable, and convenient alternative to driving or using ride-share when I need to get around. Strictly limiting the number of Birds on our streets with an arbitrary cap would only make them harder to find, forcing me back into the car. Please do not put arbitrary limits on this great new transportation option so I can continue to rely on Bird as a sustainable and affordable alternative to sitting in traffic.

Thank you,
Celeste Chouinard

Bird has given me an affordable, sustainable, and convenient alternative to driving or using ride-share when I need to get around. Strictly limiting the number of Birds on our streets with an arbitrary cap would only make them harder to find, forcing me back into the car. Please do not put arbitrary limits on this great new transportation option so I can continue to rely on Bird as a sustainable and affordable alternative to sitting in traffic. We need more of them. I spend 40 minutes in traffic every morning to go 7 miles. We need more birds to alleviate the congestion. The company has instituted safety measures so there should be nothing to limit the number. This is environmentally conscious. Please consider the fact that this decreases the proportion of people driving to work exponentially. If birds were everywhere we could potentially reduce commuters by a huge percentage. And thus decrease the negative footprint impact of commuters driving to work every day

Thank you,
Bethany Wendel

Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

Bird has given me an affordable, sustainable, and convenient alternative to driving or using ride-share when I need to get around. Strictly limiting the number of Birds on our streets with an arbitrary cap would only make them harder to find, forcing me back into the car. Please do not put arbitrary limits on this great new transportation option so I can continue to rely on Bird as a sustainable and affordable alternative to sitting in traffic.

Thank you,
Christian Parker

Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

I hate to just copy/paste a form letter. The Bird team has done a great job with theirs, but one other thing I'd like to point out—none of the critiques of Bird that have been presented couldn't just as easily be said of cars. So when you hear from mad constituents about the dark side of electric scooters, replace “scooter” with “car” in your head and ask yourself which is the greater evil.

When people complain about Birds improperly taking up public space, they ignore that this is such a common problem with cars that an entire (often predatory) industry has been constructed to deal with it—tow trucks, impound lots, payday loans, etc. And those who complain about Birds driving unsafely and nearly causing accidents are blind to the 260+ fatal accidents caused by cars each year.

Personal electric vehicles are the missing piece for making Vision Zero a reality. Because of their newness, they lack the base of toxic support that has forced the city to abandon road diets and other meaningful reforms. You have an opportunity here to meaningfully improve Angelos' quality of life, and all you have to do is nothing.

If you feel like you must do something, in lieu of regulation, LA needs to look into deploying this technology itself to augment the metro bike shares.

Anyway, here's the chain letter, thanks for your time:

Bird has given me an affordable, sustainable, and convenient alternative to driving when I need to get around. Strictly limiting the number of Birds on our streets with an arbitrary cap would only make them harder to find, forcing me back into the car. Please do not put arbitrary limits on this great new transportation option so I can continue to rely on Bird as a sustainable and affordable alternative to sitting in traffic.

Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

Bird has given me an affordable, sustainable, and convenient alternative to driving or using ride-share when I need to get around. Strictly limiting the number of Birds on our streets with an arbitrary cap would only make them harder to find, forcing me back into the car. Please do not put arbitrary limits on this great new transportation option so I can continue to rely on Bird as a sustainable and affordable alternative to sitting in traffic.

Thank you,
Jan

Also, add more dedicated bike lanes.

Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

Bird is great. It provides a valuable service and takes cars off the road, reducing traffic and pollution. It could be a model for last mile transportation for the future. It opens up bike-like transportation to a much wider market. Don't nip this potentially game changing technology at the bud.

Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

Bird has given me an affordable, sustainable, and convenient alternative to driving or using ride-share when I need to get around. Strictly limiting the number of Birds on our streets with an arbitrary cap would only make them harder to find, forcing me back into the car. Please do not put arbitrary limits on this great new transportation option so I can continue to rely on Bird as a sustainable and affordable alternative to sitting in traffic.

Thank you,
Maria de la Paz Moreno Herrera

Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Council Members,

Bird scooters have made a night-and-day difference in Venice for my wife and myself, who are here for the summer from Florida.

Their abundant presence means that we:

1. Can use public transportation—as in Actually use public transportation—and be in time that we actually want to be in going where we actually want to go;
2. Can visit and indulge in at least 100% more of what the city has to offer, and in the process, that we can have the unique, dreamlike, flying fun of meandering among the city's gems in this almost mythic manner; and
3. In my experience, spend a lot more money as well as time at local businesses (many of which, once again, we would never have visited otherwise).

I have no doubt at all that the city will find all of the above reflected in the relevant indicators of 'a really good year'...

...IF said city doesn't put a lid on the whole thing with arbitrary limitations.

Please don't let something that dumb happen to something this brilliant.

Thank you,
Don and Martha

Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

Birds are ruining the sidewalks in Venice, especially Abbot Kinney. Please limit them or require specific places to put them.

Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

Bird has given me an affordable, sustainable, and convenient alternative to driving or using ride-share when I need to get around. Strictly limiting the number of Birds on our streets with an arbitrary cap would only make them harder to find, forcing me back into the car. Please do not put arbitrary limits on this great new transportation option so I can continue to rely on Bird as a sustainable and affordable alternative to sitting in traffic.

Thank you,

Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

my fiancé and i decided to become a one car family because parking in my neighborhood and traffic obviously is not ideal. i have been lucky to have found a job where i can walk two miles to work and i now can run errands with the help of the Bird. it's a fun, easy, quick alternative to driving and i really enjoy the freedom of being able to walk no more than a block to find access to one of these fantastic modes of transportation. by limiting the number of Birds makes them less convenient to ride and therefore less people will utilize them, which in turn puts the Birds out of business which pushes us all back into cars. but as we all know, traffic is just getting worse and worse and parking is just getting more expensive, and i have noticed more people walking and taking birds which gets them out of their cars. it's great! i love it. you can't take a Bird and be unhappy at the end of your ride. please don't take away the happiness it provides!

and one random side note, people on Birds are riding alongside their friends communicating face to face. shocking in this era!

Please do not put arbitrary limits on this great new transportation option so I can continue to rely on Bird as a sustainable and affordable alternative to sitting in traffic.

Thank you!!
Jennie Eto

Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

Bird has given me an affordable, sustainable, and convenient alternative to driving or using ride-share when I need to get around. Strictly limiting the number of Birds on our streets with an arbitrary cap would only make them harder to find, forcing me back into the car. Please do not put arbitrary limits on this great new transportation option so I can continue to rely on Bird as a sustainable and affordable alternative to sitting in traffic.

Inquiring about Los Angeles' fiscal emergency declarations

Good evening,

My name is Genevieve Selden, and I am a student at Stanford University. I am working on a research project collecting records of which California cities have declared a fiscal emergency since 2008 and when these fiscal emergencies were declared.

Has Los Angeles declared a fiscal emergency at any time since the end of the 2007 fiscal year? These fiscal emergencies allow cities to hold emergency votes on tax increases (rather than waiting for a normal election) and also allow the city to impair labor contracts.

I have attached a few examples of resolutions declaring a fiscal emergency in other cities. Thank you in advance for your help!

Best,
Genevieve

Dear City Councilmembers,

I don't want this to be another boilerplate, throw away email. I like bird and I like the affordable low environmental impact it provides. I understand the desire to limit the number of units and, being a Santa Monica resident, I understand the desire to do so. They are haphazardly thrown all over the sidewalks, streets, bike lanes, residences, etc. I think placing a cap initially is a bright idea, but to allow for rapid expansion of the fleet based on bird meeting milestone each marks.

This weekend I had to spend ten minutes clearing birds and lime scooters from a handicap sidewalk ramp to help a lady in a wheelchair get on the sidewalk. I had to spend another ten minutes clearing the narrow sidewalk so she could get home. This is unacceptable and the company is responsible for this. This citizen informed me sometimes she can't get out of her front door because her buildings plaza is a congregating ground. It's sad that we have worked so hard to make it accessible and have lazy programming of a product that ruins it.

I recommend the following milestones to allow bird to expand past their initial roll out in LA.

1. Geofence scooter areas to the architectural aspects of the sidewalk.
2. Instill a dollar fine to those who don't comply with the training and proper ride termination procedures/placement.
3. Change the training to emphasize where they can be dropped off. Show Sarah in the wheelchair and How she is negatively impacted by the riders lack of awareness.

Make the company take some ownership in changing the negatives before the can further expand. It's easy to push growth from a start up, but after a year now, they need to start doing it right. Both bird and lime. People love them, I love them. But now is the time to take control and make them spend some resources preserving the city

Thank you,
Sam Raine

Sincerely,
Sam Raine

Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

Bird has given me an affordable, sustainable, and convenient alternative to driving or using ride-share when I need to get around. Strictly limiting the number of Birds on our streets with an arbitrary cap would only make them harder to find, forcing me back into the car. Please do not put arbitrary limits on this great new transportation option so I can continue to rely on Bird as a sustainable and affordable alternative to sitting in traffic.

Thank you,
Lucie Cahierre

Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

Bird has given me an affordable, sustainable, and convenient alternative to driving or using ride-share when I need to get around. I use bird daily to get to and from home to my job as nurse. Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

Bird has given me an affordable, sustainable, and convenient alternative to driving or using ride-share when I need to get around. Strictly limiting the number of Birds on our streets with an arbitrary cap would only make them harder to find, forcing me back into the car. Please do not put arbitrary limits on this great new transportation option so I can continue to rely on Bird as a sustainable and affordable alternative to sitting in traffic.

Thank you,

Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmember Bonin,

I have stopped using my car to commute on a daily basis in favor of scooter companies such and Bird. My wife and I are also going from a two car to one car household.

This thought was out of the question when I moved to Los Angeles in early 2013. Now as a homeowner and committed resident I support any solution which removes congestion, is friendly to our environment and is affordable — I can pay for a lot of Bird rides with the money I'm saving on car payments, parking and insurance! Often times my commute is even faster compared to if I had driven.

Please consider a utilization based cap for Bird and like services. The key to me being able to give up my car has been that Bird is reliably available in my neighborhood. If that changes, I will begrudgingly be required to drive every day due to a lack of other convenient public transportation services in my neighborhood.

Thank you,
Jeff Kreutter

Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

Bird has given me an affordable, sustainable, and convenient alternative to driving or using ride-share when I need to get around. Strictly limiting the number of Birds on our streets with an arbitrary cap would only make them harder to find, forcing me back into the car. Please do not put arbitrary limits on this great new transportation option so I can continue to rely on Bird as a sustainable and affordable alternative to sitting in traffic.

Thank you,
Andrew Schuster

Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

Bird has given me an affordable, sustainable, and convenient alternative to driving or using ride-share when I need to get around. Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

Bird has given me an affordable, sustainable, and convenient alternative to driving or using ride-share when I need to get around. Strictly limiting the number of Birds on our streets with an arbitrary cap would only make them harder to find, forcing me back into the car. Please do not put arbitrary limits on this great new transportation option so I can continue to rely on Bird as a sustainable and affordable alternative to sitting in traffic.

Thank you,
Kevin McReynolds

Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

Stop letting old people - who are afraid of technology and progress- ruin everything. Birds get cars off the road and reduce pollution and over crowding on highways.

They create a better city.

There's no good explanation, besides greed from outdated industries and ignorant fear mongering, for them not being available at scale.

Since it seems like a foregone conclusion that you're going to ruin this - here's a nice message.

"I can't wait for my generation to vote you out of office"

Bird has given me an affordable, sustainable, and convenient alternative to driving or using ride-share when I need to get around. Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

Bird has become a stress-free alternative to driving for me, in my neighborhood of Venice - a high-stress traffic area. It improves my mood in a way that driving could never do. Please don't take this away from people who appreciate an eco-friendly, cheap, fun alternative to driving or owning a bike.

Strictly limiting the number of Birds on our streets with an arbitrary cap would only make them harder to find, forcing me back into the car. Through this service I have been able to discover parts of the city I have never traveled to, experiences new restaurants and coffee shops I've been restricted from visiting due to parking/traffic, and also shop at new businesses in my area. It's really been a fun way to fall back in love with this city and I know tons of others who feel the same way.

Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

Bird has given me an affordable, sustainable, and convenient alternative to driving or using ride-share when I need to get around. Strictly limiting the number of Birds on our streets with an arbitrary cap would only make them harder to find, forcing me back into the car. Please do not put arbitrary limits on this great new transportation option so I can continue to rely on Bird as a sustainable and affordable alternative to sitting in traffic.

Thank you,
Micah Herman

Dear General Manager Reynolds, Mayor, and City Councilmembers,

Bird has given me an affordable, sustainable, and convenient alternative to driving or using ride-share when I need to get around. I literally have stopped using my car for every day tasks. I grocery shop and run errands using bird constantly. Strictly limiting the number of Birds on our streets with an arbitrary cap would only make them harder to find, forcing me back into the car. Please do not put arbitrary limits on this great new transportation option so I can continue to rely on Bird as a sustainable and affordable alternative to sitting in traffic.

Thank you,
Anastasia Hamilton
