Dear Mr White,
I am writing to express my opposition to an entirely new form of digital advertising on our streets. "Firefly" signs are violating my right to unencumbered public space. I believe these signs are dangerous, distracting, and illegal under the California Vehicle Code. Our visual environment is already distracting for drivers and intrusive to the public. These signs will take rotating digital ads into every neighborhood of the city and are imposing on my right to peace and tranquility in my home and infringing on my quality of life. We need to stop this and not allow the public space to become blighted any further. Please do the right thing and stop this from happening.
Thank you,
April Kullis
