Comments for Public Posting: There is no reason to allow public camping everywhere and anywhere in Los Angeles. You had the opportunity to help mentally ill and scrapped the idea, leaving thousands on the street. These people need help - and help is not livining in squalor in the street. The currently lax laws have allowed criminals like drug dealers and murderers to hide among the encampments, endangering our neighborhoods and families. There is plenty of room to build tent cities with services in areas that cost much less than Los Angeles and it's not fair to keep making us pay more taxes to make up for the lack of leadership. And you keep allowing public sleeping and making it normal, you are inviting more transients to come live here - they are no longer our neighbors. We need laws to protect law abiding tax-payers.
