Comments for Public Posting: I and my wife are 80 and 78 years old respectively. We are finding shopping for groceries and other items for day to day existence to be problematic. In one case the store manager was sympathetic, but opened the flood gates to younger shoppers after 10 minutes and we were out run and crowded out and in other cases younger aggressive shoppers again out ran us for basics like bread and meat. We are NOT trying to hoard. Please enact this ordinance to help us older people.
