Re: CF 09-2645

Dear Mr. Lid:

At our February 2010 meeting, the full South Robertson Neighborhoods Council ("SORO NC") unanimously passed a resolution requesting that the City draft a new wireless telecommunications facilities ordinance as soon as possible. I have attached copies of the original motion and the minutes of the meeting.

Like our colleagues in at least 25 other Westside neighborhood councils, we are particularly concerned that the current regulations on cell towers are woefully insufficient. The problem has begun to dramatically accelerate, and it is imperative that the City acts quickly to avoid it spiraling completely out of control. A pro-active, community-sensitive and forward-thinking ordinance will prevent a replay of the chaos and political fallout the City experienced with, say, the recent proliferation of electronic billboards.

We ask that you include our resolution with the official Council File referenced above. Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Doug Fitzsimmons
President, South Robertson Neighborhoods Council

Motion that SORONC recommend that the City draft a new wireless telecommunications ordinance

Agenda Item: GB021810-5
Date: 2/18/10
Proposed By: Land Use Committee

Summary

Motion that SORONC recommend that the City draft a new wireless telecommunications ordinance.

Full Proposal

1. Residents throughout Los Angeles are concerned about numerous cell towers/antennas that have been erected or proposed in the past year, in public rights of way and on private property near homes and schools, many without notice and with little or no regulation. Some residents have been startled to find cell towers installed almost overnight in front of their homes, with no notice. These installations are continuing unabated in 2010.

2. Broadband and “data” usage is expanding exponentially because of developing new technologies such as smartphones; more and more cell towers and antennas are required to provide data coverage; the FCC has publicly claimed a “pressing” need to “cut local red tape,” in order to “boost” cell tower construction and “speed deployment” of “ubiquitous” antennas.

3. Los Angeles’ existing cell tower regulations are a patchwork of confusing and sometimes conflicting rules, policies and procedures. There is no ability to deny a cell tower on aesthetic grounds, and there are no specific protections for residential neighborhoods (whether on private or public property). Utility pole cell site installations in public rights of way (ongoing in residential neighborhoods city-wide) are completely exempt from regulation; no installation or excavation permits of any kind are required if a telecom company wishes to install a cell tower with a utility pole as the support structure. DWP officials even claim that telecoms are supposedly entitled to erect pole structures of any height wherever they wish in public rights of way, without local regulation, because of the “Joint Pole Agreement” (JPA).

3. Important 9th Circuit decisions have made it clear that cities now have the ability to regulate cell towers more extensively for location and appearance than had previously been understood or believed at the time Los Angeles’ current ordinances were drafted. In the most recent decision, Sprint v. Palos Verdes, the Court ruled that cities have discretionary authority to bar cell towers from public rights of way on aesthetic grounds, subject to federal Telecom Act restrictions. This 1996 Act prevents cities from 1) completely prohibiting cell towers; 2) unreasonably discriminating among cell providers; and 3) denying cell towers on the basis of “health” or concerns about RF emissions that are within FCC standards.

4. The City Attorney is investigating Los Angeles' regulations in light of new case law and the city's participation in the JPA, in accordance with motions submitted by Councilmembers Rosendahl (CF No. 09-2645) and Hahn.
5. To date, 25 NCs, CCs and other organizations throughout Los Angeles have passed motions/resolutions or submitted letters to the City expressing concern about cell tower proliferation and regulation and calling for regulatory reform.

Proposed Motion

SORONC recommends that with the City Attorney's guidance and consistent with his recommendations, the City enact a comprehensive new ordinance with clear and consistent standards and procedures regulating all wireless telecommunications facilities in the City, authorizing regulation of aesthetics and providing protection to communities and residential neighborhoods to the full extent of the law.
