Dear Councilman Cedillo and members of the PLUM Committee,

I’m writing in support of the historic landmark nomination for the Stires Staircase Bungalow Court at 1251-1259 Sunset Boulevard, which you will hear at the PLUM Committee meeting on October 29.

Bungalow courts are increasingly rare, but they are significant and vital to the story of Los Angeles history and culture. The Stires Staircase Bungalow Court was built on this Angelino Heights hillside in 1922 in the simple Mission Revival style. They were designed with no garages, driveways or vehicle access and 112 steps connecting these 10 little homes.

This neighborhood holds a special place in Los Angeles history for many reasons, and so do bungalow courtyards - our quintessential working-class housing.

The application won the approval of the Cultural Heritage Commission on August 6, 2020. The nomination passed on ALL THREE criteria: the bungalow court architecture, the historic personage of bank executive Lilly Bennett Baldwin Howard, and the cultural connection to the streetcar line which serviced the Sunset Boulevard corridor at that time. It’s rare for the Commission to grant an approval on all three criteria, and that speaks to the unique importance of this site. As expressed by CD1 staff, I hope you will defer to the decision of the Cultural Heritage Commission and vote in support of this nomination.

thank you for your time,

Lauren Everett,
Angeleno

(Here you can talk about why you love bungalow courts, why you love Angelino Heights history, Echo Park, the history of the Red Car line, early feminist or immigration/worker history, etc)

They were designed with no garages, driveways or vehicle access and 112 steps connecting these 10 little homes.

Bungalow courtyard and garden apartments are being targeted by gentrifiers in LA, with less than 400 remaining properties while being a symbol of the architectural and cultural history of our city. I myself have lived in LA for over 2 decades, including many years in and near the Echo Park area, and am saddened to see this heritage continually wiped from our streets in favor of cookie-cutter, modernist "luxury" apartments, condominiums, and mixed use strip malls that often remain largely empty for years. These types of developments worsen the affordable housing crisis we have while promising to build low income units under TOC projects. Do not turn your face away from the scourge of gentrification now during an unprecedented public health emergency! We look to our elected officials to represent the public and not just monied interests.
