Comments for Public Posting: My mothered raised 3 girls by herself. My 2 older sisters decided to take the wrong path.. with drug addictions & committing crimes on multiple occasions. One has a record so long it's shocking. People ask me how I got out clean? Why don't I have a record? How come I didn't follow their foot steps!? I look at them and tell them it's because of my horses. You see, horses aren't just something you see every now and again. It's a daily task. They rely on us being there for them. To give them a job they love, and build a partnership. It taught me responsibility and great work habits I still carry to this day. Because I barrel raced I won a scholarship that gave me the opportunity to be able to attend college. Some it's a way of life. However, to me it saved my life and many others I grew up with. Because I had this responsibility to my partner I dedicated ALL my time in taking care of him. I learned from a young age nothing goes as planned, when things get tuff you don't give up and cry about it, you pick your head up & you cowgirl up! How to handle many different personality types people have. Practice makes perfect & teamwork always makes the dream work! I now have two young daughters who also ride. The thought of them not being able to have this same experience I got as a kid would be devastating. I would like to disagree/oppose/reject with anyone who thinks banning rodeos, barrel racing, roping event, etc. As blessed as we all are having them in our lives, we are also thankful for the future they've given us and continue giving us and our future generations!! Thank you for taking the time to read my comment. God bless America!!

Comments for Public Posting: It is time to end rodeo. It is animal abuse and we are far beyond sactioning animal abuse for our entertainment. ~

Comments for Public Posting: I support the L.A. rodeo device ban. There is no excuse for animal abuse.
