Comments for Public Posting: Contrary to what you have been misled to believe, the bulls that are used by the PBR are not mistreated. Take a good hard look, they are amazingly athletes and are worth thousands of dollars. The strap (bucking strap) is an irritation not a torture device. People need to do their homework before making false claims.

Comments for Public Posting: This is absolutely ridiculous! Why would you ban events for hard working people who love their animals. These events also are so important to young kids who work extremely hard at their sport to be able to compete and overall have fun. Training horses is a passion and it is not for everyone, it takes countless hours and consistency along with dedication to be able to preform at certain levels with these amazing animals. This sport is a life style for most and not only do horsemen put in countless hours for these animals but also this is not a cheap sport, horses come with large expenses. California would be absolutely insane to deny this sport because it would be taking money from its own pockets! Honestly, it won't surprise me if this idiotic state does ban equestrian sports but all this ban would do is move our sport to a accommodating state to which we already are willing to travel because it's cheaper anyways or we will all just move out of this dump! Sincerely, An equestrian loving Republican?????????

Comments for Public Posting: Rodeo, Charro and equestrian events and exhibitions are part of our Western Heritage. Losing our Western Heritage would be very sad! Stop the Ban of Rodeo!
