Comments for Public Posting: My comments are in support of rodeo and everything it stands for. Hard work. Long days taking care of animal athletes. Great role models that support each other in good and bad times. Competition. Making a living. Raising a family. Spectators joining together in an American past time. The cowboys, the horses, the safety crew, and the bulls are closely monitored for safety and health. I am so very thankful for a sport where every person loves their job, anthems are stood for and despite a pandemic, found a way to keep earning their living while implementing all safety protocols. The bulls are treated like elite athletes and they love their jobs! During a visit to the world finals held in Texas, we took a bull housing tour. Clean pens, food, water, exercise and I even stood beside an owner and brushed her bull. If there is someone with an issue of how the animals are treated, they should educate themselves and get a firsthand look and then make an informed decision. Thank you for your time concerning this matter which is very important to me! Lisa

Comments for Public Posting: Its a sad thing that you want to give up your history as it can never be recovered! You aren't thinking about the millions of dollars in revenue you are giving up! Please reconsider your decision!

Comments for Public Posting: I am amazed at the ignorance of people who tell me they are against the PBR because of how the cattle are treated. I've seen the protesters outside the arena condemning the treatment of the animals. I laugh EVERY time because I've seen first hand how these animals are treated! They are PAMPERED!!! I laugh because I always say to myself that they should be protesting about the way the humans are treated!!!! LOL I BEG of you....BEFORE you decide on anything....TAKE A MOMENT TO EDUCATE YOURSELF & SEE FOR YOURSELF how these animals are cared for! Please do not let ignorance and misinformation taint the TRUTH! FACTS ARE STUBBORN THINGS! THANK YOU!
