Comments for Public Posting: Hello I am writing to express mu concern about the misguided concept that bull riding is part of animal abuse of any kind. I am have been in and around livestock for most of my life and the equipment used on these animales is totally safe. These animales are athlete and it may seem silky but if you are ever around them you will know that they actually enjoy performing. It would be big mistake to ban rodeo or bulk riding from the county of LA. Please don't let a group of fanatics influence something that is a tradition and part of the culture for many other people. Thank you

Comments for Public Posting: These bulls are treated like the celebrities that they are. They might buck twice a week for 8 seconds. They are very valuable and are treated like it.

Comments for Public Posting: PBR bulls are some of the most well kept and babied bulls I have ever seen, anyone who says they are mistreated has clearly never been around them. They are great and literally bred to do what they do. Banning the sport would be a assnine decision.

Comments for Public Posting: False information is being spread about the treatment of bucking bulls. Please fact check yourselves by meeting with PBR stock contractors and visiting their bulls. They have a great relationship with the animals and take great care!

Comments for Public Posting: The sport of bull riding is a sacred sport and it is a major part of sports history. This sport teaches values unlike any other sport in existence. Most of all bull riding teaches proper treatment of the animals. The bulls used in this sport receive exceptional care and they are pampered in many ways throughout their lives. This being said, before banning this sport please do your research on the health of the animals who partake. They all live out long, healthy lives. They also enjoy retirement on huge ranches where they may roam free as they please. Please do your research on the true ways these animals are treated before making a decision like this. These bulls are kept happy and healthy.
