Comments for Public Posting: Animals are our partners in life. We as humans need the companionship of animals and they need us for their survival. What these groups are proposing would lead to abandoned animals which would become nuisances And at risk of being exterminated. Thank you David Buchanan

Comments for Public Posting: All animal cruelty must stop. Using devices to make horses, bulls or any animal participate in a so called event for entertainment is just plain wrong. These rodeos frighten and stress the poor animals out. This should NOT be part of so called animal lovers lives/traditions, in the 21st century.

Comments for Public Posting: These bleeding hearts need to stop with their ridiculous claims. My son is in FFA at his school and loves it. We have been to rodeos and other various animal exhibitions and have not seen any cruelty to said animals. If these events are taken away, what are our children going to do? Sit around and play video games?! What a bunch of BS.

Comments for Public Posting: Rodeos have no place in society. There is enough cruelty in the world without abusing animals under the guise of 'culture' or 'entertainment'. We need to stop normalizing animal abuse, especially to children who are already exposed to plenty of violence in the world. It's time to end rodeos!

Comments for Public Posting: Most rodeo activities are just inhumane. They squish something around the bull's testicles to make him jump and grimace in pain. And despite any safeguards most bull riders will end up like my husband at 50. He has lost one leg due to number of breaks the bones wouldn't fuse. He had punctured a lung w a broken rib, he gets confused easily due to number of concussions. Probably has TBI. HE has broken 4 bones in his spine, his femur, and left hip. It is inhumane for man and animal. And dont get me started on roping scared baby calves.
