Comments for Public Posting: Please do not ban rodeo. This industry has always taken very good care of the animals, and supports the way of life. The competitors will always have the welfare of their animals first in their lives. Please don't take this away from us.

Comments for Public Posting: Hello, I grew up in PA, and was not a fan of rodeo and specifically PBR, until I witnessed it. Being concerned about animal rights, I worked my way to be able to view it behind the scenes. I need to share that these bulls were treated like the owners' children. The owners would show me were they preferred to be scratched, what their custom-made feed was, and I've seen the beautiful fields that they roam at home. When they are traveling, they all are turned out in the evenings, not just on trailers as you would imagine. My children grew up wanting to raise cattle because of the PBR. They have done so responsibly with careful pasture management, as organically as possible, all because of the PBR. Please do not depend on lies to band this and other western radio sports. Besides the entertainment value, the lessons are readily available in the PBR world: honoring your animals, hardwork, depending on others, respect for the United States, and where diversity is truly accepted. To help the riders, one night they ate at my home, I had three Hispanic (Brazilian) one Hispanic (Mexican), one African-American, one Native American and one Caucasian. Our dinner guests were 86 % minority! Please, please do your own research. Respectfully, Jane DelBianco
