Comments for Public Posting: The city is attempting to ban traditional western sports that have been a part of the western United States since cowboying began. The animals are not harmed, in fact the animals are treated better than most humans. Groups such as PETA, Last Chance for Animals and the HSUS spread lies and misinformation constantly in an attempt to sway public opinion and policy. They lied about Mountain Lions being endangered and needed to be protected....they lied about Bob cats being endangered. They constantly lie, and their lies create bad policy and law. The owners of the bulls and the bull riders love the animals more than other humans. They have more respect for them. These bulls generate money that trickles throughout the economy. These events employ thousands of people who then spend their hard earned money in the economy and into the hunting and fishing realm that actually conserves other species in the eco system. To ban this even will be another bullet wound in the cities foot that was self inflicted. Please do not ban these events.

Comments for Public Posting: I have been around bull riding for years. There are very few sports where there is no competition among the participants. They only compete against themselves and the bull. Every athlete roots for and helps the other. That is really difficult to find in today's world. As for the matter of the bulls, those animals are loved and pampered more than some dogs I know. There are more important things that Los Angeles should be doing than listening to people who want to take a decent and people friendly competition away.

Comments for Public Posting: Ending bull ridding is absolutely ridiculous it does nothing to injure the bulls. As far as the riders are no more danger than a football player. These people need to go get a real job and do something productive in society.

Comments for Public Posting: Rodeo not only absolutely IS a sport, it is also a part of western heritage that should NOT be silenced/banned. Please do not get rid of one of our most cherished parts of western US history and culture. Those battling against this sport for the most part have not taken any effort to truly learn about it. Please do not cancel this beloved sporting event, cultural piece, and way of life.

Comments for Public Posting: By taking rodeo away you are taking someone life and hard work! People that rodeo put so much hard work and time for the sport! We take care of the animals more than we take care of ourselves! Rodeo teaches kids what hard work is like and it gives them experiences like nothing else! Rodeo let's you make friends, create an amazing bond with animals, and bring a community or people with the same interest together! I have done rodeo since I was a little kid and I have dedicated so much time into it and I have met the most amazing people at highschool rodeos! Rodeo is my life and the love I have for the sport is out of this world! If rodeo got band all my hard work and my life style would be ripped away. I'm only 16 years old and rodeo has taught me so much! Don't take it away from the people that have worked so hard for the sport their whole life!

Comments for Public Posting: Bull riding and rodeo are apart of our heritage. The last of the dying breed. If you stop these events, I fear for these kids being brought up to never see what a man really is.
