Comments for Public Posting: I visit Los Angeles from Australia to watch the western lifestyle such as rodeos. Myself, my family and several friends come every year and spend substantial amounts of money in California. Not once have we seen any animal cruelty or the like. On the contrary, the animals I see are looked after better than the cowboys themselves. It would be a pity that an uneducated mob of unruly animal rights protesters would be the reason for us any many others to not visit your beautiful state and city.
