Comments for Public Posting: I am following ordinances being enacted banning horse related activities and equipment. Just want to express my thought that whoever drafted the legislation has not a clue about the equestrian life style. Did anyone actually investigate a number or percentage of injury to animals in events using the banned equipment? I hope every cowboy and cowgirl in the state will unite to march in protest against this inane action. May someone on the council wake up and realize what a mistake has been made....you may not agree, but cowboy lives matter.

Comments for Public Posting: Rodeo has been a way of life for so many of us. It is so sad that people who have no idea what rodeo is even about can possibly take this away from us. Our animals are cared for before anyone. Working with stock contractors for many years their animals are their number one priority. Our animals help us make a living so if they are not well kept we don't make money. They are loved and cared for before ourselves. The fact that the people that have never lived in our shoes get to decide what is best for us is so so wrong. If they spent any amount of time with people that work with animals in rodeo they would have a different view of this. Please don't take this away from our kids and our families.
