Comments for Public Posting: There are already 70 rules set by the PRCA, made by people who have first hand experience in knowing what dangers are associated with the sport. Not to mention Penal code 596.7, which the PRCA respects and follows. People who spend thousands of dollars on their designer dogs and cats do not waste their investment by neglecting their animals. Stock contractors, rodeo producers, and cowboys and cowgirls put thousands and millions into their horses and cattle, and make their living based on their animals performance. The last thing they want to do is neglect their animals, whom they love and respect as equal athletes. Why should a few people who do not have firsthand experience make rules that will only harm law abiding citizens who love the sport of rodeo? Not to mention the harm that will come to the local economy due to lack of jobs provided by a hosted rodeo, and traffic to local shops and restaurants.
